

DISPUTE RESOLUTION POLICY

You expressly agree that in case any dispute arises out, you shall move for arbitration having exclusive jurisdiction of laws of India. Also, the exclusive jurisdiction in respect of any other legal dispute or matter arising out of any medical advice in any way relating to your use of the Site, resides in the courts of India and you further agree and expressly consent to the exercise of personal jurisdiction in the courts of the New Delhi, India in connection with any such dispute including any claim involving Drsafehands or its affiliates, subsidiaries, employees, contractors, officers, directors, telecommunication providers, and content providers.